ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The information in this section is intended to provide you with more detailed information related to the pre-retirement catch-up provision.

Eligibility – Pre-Retirement Catch-Up

You are eligible to make pre-retirement catch-up contributions if all of the following are true:

1. You are within three years of reaching the normal retirement age under the plan, which must be at least the age you are eligible to retire with unreduced retirement benefits from your employer's pension plan.
2. You are currently employed and participating in your employer's 457 deferred compensation plan.

You did not contribute the maximum amount you were eligible to contribute for one or more years since 1979.

Maximum Pre-Retirement Catch-Up Contribution Amount

The maximum annual total contribution is equal to double the normal deferral limit in effect for the year. You must have sufficient unused deferrals to contribute the maximum amount.

457 Plan Contribution Limit	2025	2024
Annual Deferrals	$23,500	$23,000
Pre-Retirement Catch-Up	$23,500 ($47,000 total)	$23,000 ($46,000 total)
Age 50 Catch-Up	$7,500 ($31,000 total)	$7,500 ($30,500 total)
Age 60-63 "Super Catch-Up" (if offered by your employer)	$11,250 ($34,750 total)	N/A

All contribution limits apply to the combination of pre-tax and Roth contributions.

Declaration of Normal Retirement Age

You can only make pre-retirement catch-up contributions in the three years immediately preceding the year of your declared normal retirement age. The year of your declared NRA can be any year during or after which you are eligible to receive unreduced benefits from your employer's pension plan (or a money purchase pension plan in which you also participate if you are not eligible to participate in a defined benefit plan), but cannot be later than the year that you attain age 70½.

Unless an alternate NRA is specified by your employer, the MissionSquare 457 plan uses age 70½ as your NRA and you can elect an alternate NRA of no earlier than 65.

Your declaration of NRA is irrevocable once you begin making pre-retirement catch-up contributions.

Qualified Police Officers and Firefighters

Under a special rule, qualified police officers and firefighters[†] can designate a normal retirement age earlier than other plan participants, but not earlier than age 40.

†This special rule is available to a "qualified police or firefighter" as defined under section 415(b)(2)(h)(ii)(I) of the Internal Revenue Code as a participant with "...at least 15 years of service...as a full time employee of any police or fire department which is organized by the State or political subdivision to provide police protection, firefighting services, or emergency medical services for any area within the jurisdiction of such State or political subdivision."

IMPORTANT NOTES

- You cannot make catch-up contributions in the year of your declared NRA.
- You are not required to make catch-up contributions in all three years leading up to the year of your declared NRA.
- You are not required to retire in the year of your declared NRA.
- The pre-retirement catch-up provision can only be used one time with your current employer.

TOTAL UNUSED DEFERRALS

The difference between the amount you were eligible to contribute to your current employer's plan since 1979 and the amount you actually contributed. Use the below worksheet to calculate your total unused deferrals.

2004	$13,000
2003	$12,000
2002	$11,000
Total $

The maximum contribution is the dollar amount shown or 100% of your compensation for the year whichever is less. Prior to 2002, the maximum percentage contribution was 25% of your gross compensation and your actual contribution amount must include any 401(k) contributions made during the year.

The maximum contribution in 2001 was $8,500. The maximum contribution from 1998-2000 was $8,000. Prior to 1998, the maximum contribution was $7,500.

In the "Actual Contribution" column, enter the amount you contributed to your current employer's 457 plan for each year that you were eligible to participate in the plan.

Subtract the amount of your actual contribution from the maximum amount you were eligible to contribute to the plan each year, and enter the amount in the "Unused Deferrals" column.

Add the amounts entered in the "Unused Deferrals" column for each year to calculate your total unused deferral amount.

EXAMPLE – Pre-Retirement Catch-Up

John declared age 70, which he will attain in the year 2026, as his normal retirement age. He is eligible to make catch-up contributions in the three years immediately preceding the year of his NRA: 2023, 2024, and 2025.

Maximum Regular Contribution (2023-2025)

$$$69,000 = $22,500 + $23,000 + $23,500$$

Maximum Pre-Retirement Catch-Up Contribution (2023-2025)

$$$69,000 = $22,500 + $23,000 + $23,000$$

Maximum Total Contribution (2023-2025)

$$$138,000 = [$69,000 \text{ (regular)} + $69,000 \text{ (catch-up)}]$$

In order to make the maximum catch-up contribution of $69,000, John must complete the Unused Deferral Worksheet and show that he has at least $69,000 of unused deferrals for years when he was eligible to participate in his current employer's 457 plan.

- Even though John is eligible to make catch-up contributions totaling $69,000 from 2023-2025, he is not required to do so. He might make catch-up contributions in 2023, and then his circumstances change and he ends up not making any catch-up contributions in 2024 or 2025. If so, he would still be eligible to take advantage of the age 50 catch-up provision in future years, but he would not be eligible to make pre-retirement catch-up contributions to this employer's plan at any point in the future.
- Even though John has declared age 70 as his NRA, he is not prohibited from retiring before (or after) the date when he attains age 70.
